ISU College Dems Travel to Pennsylvania for “So, What’s Next Conference”

Normal, Ill. – The Illinois State University College Democrats will be sending five members to Dickinson College in Carlisle, Pennsylvania for the “So, What’s Next: College Students and the Future of the Democratic Party and Liberalism in America.” The conference will take place from February 25-27.

The ISU College Dems will be joining schools from all over the country including; Brown, Columbia, and Penn State, a total of thirteen schools will be attending the conference. ISU Dems will be represented at the conference by; President, Logan Faron, Vice President, Craig Kauzlarich, Communications Director, Nick Dagers, Fundraising Chair, Zach Koutsky, and Stephanie Parks.

The “So What’s Next” conference has attracted some major speakers. The two keynotes will be given by; Stuart Rothenberg, CNN contributor and editor of the Rothenberg Political Report and Peter Beinart, the editor of The New Republic. Others speakers include; Reverend Dr. James Gilchrist, Professor Crispin Sartwell, and Dan Morabito, the Executive Director of the Pennsylvania Democratic Party.

“I think that attending this conference is going to be an excellent opportunity for our group to learn new techniques and new ideas to help us be successful in the future,” said ISU Dems President Logan Faron.

The ISU College Dems are a registered student organization at Illinois State University. The primary goal of the ISU College Dems is to help elect democrats to office at all levels of government and to raise civic participation among the 20,000 students of Illinois State University and the surrounding community.
